WHAT IS CESP?

The Partnership for the Delaware Estuary's (PDE) Corporate & Community Environmental Stewardship Program (CESP) brings community members together to improve their local environment. CESP members can reduce the cost of managing their property and build community and corporate relationships, while restoring natural areas that protect wildlife habitats, preserve open space, and help provide clean water in local waterways that flow to the Delaware River and Bay.

Examples of projects could include:

- Corporate employees working with local school students to turn expensive, high-maintenance lawns into low-maintenance natural meadows that provide food and shelter for wildlife.
- Local governments installing rain gardens in public areas to reduce unwanted ponding problems.
- Community organizations working with local volunteers to plant native trees and plants along streams to protect fragile stream banks and reduce erosion.

The possibilities and environmental benefits are endless when we work together!

WHY BECOME A MEMBER?

Corporations, local governments, schools, and other landowners help to make local creeks and rivers cleaner by incorporating simple changes on their properties. Working with the CESP program, members can:

- Protect the tidal Delaware River and Bay, one of the nation's most important natural resources and home to millions of people and many species of plants and animals.
- Promote sustainable economic growth and development.
- Reduce property maintenance costs.
- Receive technical assistance from a trained restoration specialist.
- Participate in hands-on projects, attend workshops, and enjoy annual eco-events.
- Build bridges between community members by working to restore natural areas.
